

CULTURAL ARTS

With my longstanding interest in the literary, visual and performing arts, I have enjoyed working for several cultural institutions, either as an employee, volunteer or consultant. These organizations include an internationally award-winning museum, a 19th century brownstone mansion, a regional theater, and a literature festival named the “Best of Baltimore.”

HEALTH CARE

My experience in health care began as a Board Member of a local community health center. Since then, I have worked in almost every area of the industry, beginning with one of the nation’s leading pediatric hospitals and moving to other nationally-recognized institutions known for genomics research, skilled nursing, senior care and rehab.

MEDIA

From desktop publishing of flyers and newsletters to working for one of the largest publishers in the Baltimore-Washington region, I have a wide range of experience in mass communications. This experience centers around print publication, but my corporate communications skills include video and radio productions, trade advertising and media relations.

EDUCATION

Early in my career I worked in education as a student teacher/counselor in a city-sponsored summer reading camp. However, as a grant writer and development specialist I have also worked or volunteered for several academic programs, ranging from my own high school alma mater to student arts education and the universities associated with health institutions.

COMMUNITY

In addition to working in fundraising and corporate relations for organizations dedicated to public service, my work usually brings me face-to-face with many activists, community leaders and elected officials. I have also volunteered for political campaigns.
